Hey y'all!

The Nexia internship for 2012-13 has officially begun as of April 9th. I am interning with a guy named Mike Suderman who is a Canadian from Manitoba.

We have had a jam packed month of learning about support raising, setting goals, and preparing for the mobile tour. The third Sunday of this month we were invited to a church to set up a booth along with many other missions' organizations so we could speak to people about YWAM. I was amazed by how many people who passed our booth remarked that they knew someone who had participated in YWAM and said they had a wonderful experience! I enjoyed speaking to the former YWAM students and staff about the transformational power of God.

Now I am focusing specifically on preparing for the mobile tour which will last the entire month of May. A mobile tour is a road trip where we will stop at churches and Christian schools to speak to youth about missions' opportunities. All of the team will arrive this week to leave on May 4th. I am thrilled to be a part of this tour!

On a personal note I am immensely thankful to be a part of this internship. It has taken me a little time to readjust to the culture in Canada as I miss the charms of southern living (and sweet tea, no one makes it as well as they do in the good ol' south!) During my prayer times God has asked me to delve deeper into him so he can penetrate more areas of my life. I am asking God for the perseverance to seek his transformational presence above everything else and for the wisdom to know what to do with new revelations

Prayer requests:

- protection as we travel during the mobile tour
- wisdom for the words to say at each location
- for God to fill any open spaces in our itinerary

Personal Prayer requests:

- for God to give me perseverance and discipline to achieve my goals
- to be reminded daily of what God has taught me and be willing to learn more
- that I would make the most of this internship and pursue God above anything else

Team building exercise with the mobile tour group...blindfolded!!

Thanks for praying! Until next time...

God bless,
